

European Delirium Association

Inaugural Meeting
Date: 6 and 7 October 2006
Alkmaar, The Netherlands

European Delirium Association

Recently researchers in the field of delirium met in North Carolina (Duke University) to discuss present developments and future research.

It was very stimulating to meet so many interested in the subject as well as brainstorming about future research priorities. It was the consensus that more work is urgently needed, especially in the areas of pathophysiology, phenomenology, and aetiology, and that the time is right to form an international delirium working group/association.

We plan to start with a European group to meet and share research ideas and interests. The proposed title of the group is the European Delirium Association. All health professionals and scientists involved in delirium research and practice are welcome.

As well as holding this meeting, we are in the process of setting up a website (www.europeandeliriumassociation.com) which will have a discussion forum.

Regards,

Kees J. Kalisvaart MD PhD, Geriatrician, Alkmaar, The Netherlands
Alasdair MJ MacLulich MRCP PhD, Geriatrician, University of Edinburgh, Scotland
David Meagher MD MRCPsych, Psychiatrist, Limerick, Ireland
